

"Creation does not end at the physical plane . . . nor does Oneness"

Elves

An Introduction For Parents, Gardeners And Others

an essay from

Master Yeshua

This may seem unusual, but I would like to talk about elves, the way elves are presented and the Elven Kingdom, which is an offshoot of the Angelic Kingdom, which is also known, from Sanskrit, as the Devic Kingdom.

Tolkien, author of Lord of The Rings, was not far off with his presentation of the elves. They have their own reporting hierarchy. They are builders in their own right. They do not work in mental matter. That is not their plane. Their plane is the etheric, which is a level of rarefied matter that mirrors the dense physical, where you can actually touch, feel and measure.

And what, you say, do elves have to do with humanity? The quick answer is that the veil between the etheric and the physical is thinning. Your flower garden might be home to a few elves. You might not see them there . . . but your children might.

Why then, you ask, are elves not covered in the Angelic Kingdom? As I said, they are an offshoot.

Elves Are Unique To Earth

Elves are a special branch of the Angelic/Devic Kingdom that is associated specifically with the planet Earth. Whereas the Angelic Kingdom, like the human kingdom, exists in fact, if not in physical form, on other planets, the Elven Kingdom is unique to the planet Earth.

Elven folk are tolerant of human beings. They are particularly fond of children and in that way they find themselves working with the fairy folk of the Deva Kingdom who are often seen and enjoyed by children. They actually work with the builders in the Devic Kingdom¹, not so much the elementals – but in part the elementals. They work and build on their own, and create on their own. While the elementals will respond to their own hierarchy and respond to humanity's thought-forms and respond to those that know the words to control them, the elven folk are more particular.

It is as if they have a finer sense of discrimination than do the elemental builders. The elven folk can be counter to the elementals inasmuch as they can, on their own, do or undo. They can assist the elementals if they choose, or undo what the elementals have done (under orders) that might be harmful. For example, elven folk might choose to undo the worst frost damage at the edge of covered grapevines, frost the elementals had no true choice in creating.

The elven folk have an inherent sense of value that is aligned up through the Angelic Kingdom to the point where Elven and Angelic/Devic branch, which is rather high, and from that point both kingdoms join on up to the highest Divinity representative of the planet Earth.

Elven folk have a sense of value that enables them to express primitive discrimination. This discrimination makes them very resistant to intent that is not aligned with the Divine Plan and very amenable when they sense alignment with the Plan in those who would call them.

Communication With Elves

While many among humanity might know – or think they know – the words to control elementals, fewer know the words to call elves. However, if words of control over elementals are spoken, it will attract the attention of elven folk. If the words are misspoken, the elementals will not respond. Yet if those words were used in beneficence, for laudable purposes – acceptable purposes so far as the Plan of the

Masters is concerned, the Plan of the Divine – it is possible elven folk might respond.

Many who know the right words, and think they have spoken them accurately, are unable to distinguish between elementals and elves. To distinguish between the two, one must have not only command of the language – of the words, of the sounds – one must have developed etheric vision, because at the etheric level, and in appearance, elementals and elves will be quite different.

Children – advanced, intuitively perceptive children who are not taught too soon that they do not see what they see – can distinguish. These children can often sense and know and distinguish the difference between elves and elementals.

We have already established in these essays that we of the Hierarchy are co-workers with the Angelic/Devic Kingdom (11.08 “Angels and the Power of Thought-Forms”), and the Angelic/Devic Kingdom is very responsive and protective to humanity. However, we of the Hierarchy leave work and communication with the Elven Kingdom to those who are specifically assigned to work with the Elven Kingdom.

We reach the Elven Kingdom either through Devic Kingdom representatives, either formally or informally recognized, or through those of our brethren who are specifically our emissaries to their kingdom.

Elves In Fiction

Tolkien was not far off when he portrayed elven folk as noble beings, although he gave them more anthropomorphism than truly exists. However, for their character, for their nobility, for their strengths and their moral center . . . there he was not far off, because they do have, as I said, this discriminatory ability that the elementals do not have. Elementals work under the supervision of others in the Angelic/Devic Kingdom, and under the supervision – if not directly, then certainly indirectly – of humanity. Mostly it is indirectly.

As The Veil Thins

Why be aware of this, you would ask. Why be aware that this kingdom also exists? This offshoot of the Angelic/Devic Kingdom?

Well there are several reasons.

- One, to begin to look at your folklore and your myth from a more understanding viewpoint.
- Another reason is because as humanity matures spiritually, the veil – and this you can read and hear in countless places if you do a search on the right words – the veil between the dense physical and the etheric (the rarefied mirror of the dense physical) is thinning. Those who for instance can see auras, can see chakras, they are looking into etheric matter.

As humanity evolves spiritually, more and more are being born who have etheric vision. They may be called psychic.

When being psychic becomes so common that everyone has it, or that the majority of the human race possesses and uses this capability, then it becomes common place to the point where it might not even have a name. Either that, or a new name might evolve.

Request To Parents (Aunts, Uncles and Grandparents)

As more and more children are born with the ability to see etherically, to see people's auras, to see people's chakras, to see angels, to see the various grades of the Angelic/Devic Kingdom – to see elves – it is important that those who guide these children understand what it is their children are seeing. Those who guide may not see for themselves, they might not see the etheric beings who coexist with them on the Earth, but their children might.

Where might one see fairies and elves? Usually outdoors, by far the most usual. Fairies and elves very much like flowers and flower gardens and the blooms of the grasses. They will take refuge in forests, in woodlands. These, too, are places that they will inhabit. Not many of them will come into the densest, ungreen parts of the cities.

Many wonders await those who develop etheric vision. This is just one of them.

This is a short paper, but I would ask parents to be alert should their children begin reporting things that they see, things that their parents do not.

Assistance Or Mischief – All In The Eye Of The Beholder

Elves are rarely mischievous, rarely. They will help you grow your garden. They like flowers. But they will also pay attention to those who are doing true organic food raising, organic agriculture. They will tend to favor those people and organizations who support plots of land for organic growth.

So this is another reason that one might be aware of the Elven Kingdom, and thank them for their assistance. They have enough self-motivation and work enough with the Devic Kingdom that they will do on their own from their understanding of your beneficent expectations.

Those who begin to turn their work towards gardening – be it a hobby or more serious effort – might be surprised to know elven folk are assisting. This they might discover, whether they are gardening flowers to beautify the earth or gardening with environmental work to sustain the Earth's uncultivated nature centers.

Elves are friendly to humanity for the most part, and are only considered mischievous by those who have the words of control and are using and directing the elementals in ways that are not in accordance with the good of the whole and the good of the One.

Those who might deliberately misuse the elementals would consider the Elven Kingdom mischievous for attempting to undo the harm they may have done.

It's All About Oneness

This sounds like fairy tales. This sounds like something that could have nothing to do with soul purpose or ascension or any of the other topics I've covered, but it does have to do with Oneness. It most certainly does.

For you see, Oneness does not stop at the physical plane. Oneness includes those beings who inhabit the Earth and coexist with humanity, but reside only at the etheric level.

Oneness includes these entities, these beings. So let your children see. Be yourself aware. Be open to the possibility that there are wonders yet to be discovered by those whose vision clears, by those who begin to see not only with the two eyes, but with the third eye as well.

There is spiritual growth involved. There is no doubt about that. There are wonders to be experienced with the heart, wonders to be seen and explored, wonders to be honored as part of the Oneness to which we all belong.

Conclusion

My blessings upon you. I smile. My blessings for your patience as I speak on a subject that many of you probably do not expect, and many of you will perhaps discard. But once your own etheric vision opens, I would have you remember what I have said.

May your heart be open to the fact that Creation does not end on the physical plane.

Blessings,
Yeshua

Q: Why, when and how did the Elven Kingdom emerge on Earth?

A: There are many decisions made at very high levels as the Plan for Evolution is laid out on any given planet. As I have said, the Angelic Kingdom and the human kingdom do exist in function – I would say in characteristics – on other planets. The Elven Kingdom is unique to Earth.

How did that come about, you ask.

The laws for the Devic Kingdom often vary from planet to planet. The laws for how this kingdom functions within the physical body and the etheric body of the planet Earth are very precise and restrictive. So when it became evident that there was sufficient bleed-through that some in humanity could, and would, usurp the words of power and use those words to their own purpose, there was indeed a conference. What do we do about that?

It is humanity's free will. We do not interfere with free will. The Angelic Kingdom operates under Law. Under Law, the words of power will be obeyed.

The decision was made. I'm not even going into the length of the meeting and the time frame does not matter. But at that point in time, when this realization sank in for both kingdoms at a higher level, it was decided, where evolutionary matters are concerned, that an offshoot of the Angelic Kingdom would be sufficient balance.

Thus the Elven kingdom came into being, split off by volunteers of the Devic Kingdom who understood the need. And they have created their own path. They have created their own way of fulfilling a needed spur of the Plan for Evolution on Earth.

That is why, and that is essentially how, they came into being. When does not matter. They are here now. They have been here for many centuries. They will continue to do their job, to fill the role they have carved out for themselves, to fill the role that was specified as needed in the Plan.

That is my explanation of the how and why. The "when" I'm not putting a date to. It was very early that we realized the danger was there and the Plan for Evolution was modified accordingly.

We have not violated free will. We have not violated the Laws under which the Angelic/Devic Kingdom operates and we have found, on Earth, a way to mitigate undesirable and unhealthy circumstances.
