

Milestone 2013

Work In Process

an essay from Master Yeshua

Almost two years ago, I spoke of Milestone 2013 in a commentary. That was July of 2011. At that point, I made it known that there would be many changes beginning, but that 2013 would be the year that historians noted, the beginning of a monumental shift for humanity. That is because, in this year, in 2013, there are going to be revelations.

Now these will not be revelations to everyone, for there are many who understand parts of the revelations already. Whether those who acknowledge part of what I explained also accept the whole is another matter.

As with all plans, some aspects of what I predicted for 2013 are not on schedule. I would say anyone who has worked with a construction contractor or an engineering firm or a data processing organization on a large project knows that timelines do not always come through exactly as predicted at the beginning of the project. And thus it is with what we have been planning for the shift.

That said, the shift moves forward.

One of my predictions was that there would be irrefutable proof of life on other planets. Well, if you have been reading WeSeekToServe.com, you know that life on other planets covers only a part of what is happening throughout this galaxy. What I did not say those two years ago was that we know of this life on other planets because many of us started our lives, our spiritual lives, on other planets and those connections remain intact even though we are, I suppose you could call us, naturalized citizens of planet Earth.

You have been learning of our Off-Earth Allies. You have been afforded the opportunity to listen to some of them speak for themselves. It is our intention that before this year is out, some of these Off-Earth-Allies will appear jointly with those of the Community of Spiritual Masters who are currently living in the physical plane of planet Earth.

This event takes much coordination with humanity. For just as we do not build the new civilization, we do not control the venues, nor do we control the technology for putting on such an event, for advertising such an event and for delivering such an event to the public.

Among other things, I said that the records from Atlantis would be revealed at least in part. And that much is true. There are those working now to assist in the necessary revelation of these records.

There are already translations of some of these records available on the Internet. Now there are valid translations and there are distorted translations available. I will recommend an accurate translation, as accurate as we know, of the Emerald Tablets.

www.bibliotecapleyades.net/thot/esp\_thot\_1.htm

It is our expectation that more translations or more records will be revealed.

I also said, in July of 2011, that there would be more of us coming among you. This, too, is accurate. There are some of us here now. We are preparing to move to the physical plane as a team. Now why is this different?

What is different is that those of us currently on the physical plane, while we certainly are coordinated, we are not working as a unified team on the very same objectives. We are each working for the Plan and our responsibilities within that Plan, but as with any large organization, the plan has many aspects.

As we come forward, those of us who are here now and those of us who will be coming for the first time to the physical plane, we will be a coordinated team.

Now it has been said – I believe it was Master Kuthumi who said it – that we would hope to have “fans” the way famous soccer teams have fans. The difference is that we work with those who work with us. Soccer teams don't necessarily work with their fans. And I do say that with a smile.

The turmoil that I predicted in July of 2011 is eventuating. It is called by many names, but one of them is Arab Spring.

At this point, I would have you review what it was I said nearly two years ago and have you think about it in relationship to what you see going on around you and what you know is happening with Mother Earth. The shift is well underway. There are many people, many individuals, who are reporting the fact that their psychic abilities are suddenly more pronounced, or maybe gradually more pronounced. The point is that these abilities are more pronounced and this has to do with the rising vibrations of Mother Earth, and that I have explained as well.<sup>1</sup>

What I wish to return to at this point is the introduction of our Off-Earth Allies. One of the activities that I mentioned very strongly in that commentary was that, as a result of the events of 2013, there would be a serious scientific investigation into the roots of humanity and the roots of humanity's spirituality. That is what I would like to speak about.

We have spoken, we of the Community, have spoken of the continuity of the soul<sup>2</sup>. Now, when you look at Earth's major religions, when you review what I will call the major philosophical/spiritual traditions, you will find that some incorporate the concept of soul continuity in the form of reincarnations – one incarnation after another – and some do not include this concept.

I believe you will find more consistency in the concept that I shall call the God-Spark within. The terminology may change, but I think you will find a consistency one way or another on that aspect.

I would tell you that this piece of information about the God-Spark within, that can have such deep spiritual and theological implications, is not unique to Mother Earth. Nor did this concept originate on Mother Earth. This concept is a commonality not only on our planet, but among the various planets where our Off-Earth Allies live and practice their service to the Plan.

I would introduce you to one such ally. His name is Philohstan. He comes from the constellation he calls the Eagle. I believe Earth astronomers have a different name. He is, on his own planet, a philosopher and he is a traveler within the galaxy. He has come to Earth to be of assistance at this point in our evolution. Please welcome Philohstan.

Thank you, Master Yeshua. I am very pleased to be speaking on this forum. I am most particularly pleased to be speaking on this topic.

On my planet we organize ourselves, I would say, differently than the way humanity organizes itself here on Earth. That is of minor consequence when it comes to many things. What I find interesting and where I look forward to being able to work much more closely with members of humanity is in the area I suppose you would call religion or spirituality or ethics and morals.

I come from a planet where we have what we call, well, the closest translation is "rules." Now the word "rules" has a very harsh connotation in this language, and yet there is a stability that is much more pronounced than the word "guidelines" would indicate. We do have guidelines, but they are based on our rules. I wish there were another word.

Our rules are our moral guidance for life, for living, for relationships.

As I work with those who are living and working here on Earth, I see the similarities. I see the common evolutionary core in the religions and the spiritualities and the philosophies as they have evolved on Earth. I will limit – oh, let me back up a little. On my planet I am considered a philosopher, which should warn you that I can go on and on and on. I think philosophers are wont to do that.

I will discuss our primary moral guideline, our primary moral-ethical imperative. "Belief" doesn't cover it.

I travel from planet to planet, speaking with those who are currently incarnating on the planet about their spirituality, their equivalent of our rules, and we have dialogues. And we find the commonalities and the common core. Philosophers are very pleased when they can find the common core for things like that.

So I will limit myself to speaking of our number one ethical imperative, and that is best translated, "Honor the God-Spark within."

Honor the God-Spark within. We then take this moral imperative and apply it to the way we live and to our relationships, for you see, there is no life in any kingdom on our planet – and on your planet – that does not have a God-Spark within. It is those God-Sparks that connect Creation. We each have our own role and our own place, but it is the God-Spark that connects us in the Oneness that you hear about.

So when we say, “Honor the God-Spark within,” it is honoring the God-Spark within yourself, within other beings that you relate to, within members of other kingdoms that you relate to. I think you can believe, given what I have said, that there could be many, many treatises written as to how that honoring can be done. And it is those treatises that evolve and change as the consciousness of humanity – the humanity of our planet, the humanity of your planet – as that humanity rises in level of consciousness. It is the treatises that change. It is the application of “honoring” that changes and expands and takes on deeper and broader meaning with that expansion of consciousness, but the imperative remains the same: Honor the God-Spark within.

Honor the God-Spark within. That is our primary imperative. We have other rules, and our system is broken down in other ways, which I may speak of from time to time if allowed – and I do hope that I can return. But the primary imperative does not change. And I find that a high parallelism has evolved here on Earth.

Now, did we create that imperative on our planet? No. It was shared with us by others who are further down the road, further on in the advancement of consciousness than we were. You see, that is how it works. There is a continuity.

I think you will find that our primary moral imperative is a familiar and comfortable concept for a great many of you. So you see, we have a fine base of commonality to begin working together.

I thank you.

Thank you, Philohstan.

I hope that this exposure to one of our Off-Earth Allies and the message that he brings will help you understand that the message I brought nearly two years ago is still in force and is playing out this year on this planet.

Will everything that I predicted come about?

Yes.

Will it all come about in the year 2013?

Well, now we're getting into slipped schedules, but I am here to tell you that enough will be proven and become evident that your tolerance will grant that the rest is possible, and you will begin to watch for signs that what I predicted then is coming about now.

I thank you. My blessings on you all.
