

Preparing For The Shift

an essay from

Master Yeshua

I wish to speak on preparing for the shift.

The shift is underway. It is much like a weather watch, and somebody says that it is possible that a typhoon might hit, it is possible that a tornado may hit, it is possible that there may be a blizzard . . . possible.

We are in that possibility stage – except that this “possibility” is a certainty. It is getting closer and closer, and there will then be a warning. The point is that this shift does not happen in two weeks. It will be stretched out over a matter of years. So while we are still in the watch status, it is the time to prepare.

Who needs to be prepared? What needs to be prepared? How do you go about it? Those become the questions.

Who Needs To Be Prepared?

There are many who have been talking about the shift for quite some time. They have been out there spreading the message, spreading the message of hope, spreading the message of the reality without spreading a message of fear. These are the people I would have you listen to.

Now, who needs to be prepared? Every human being on Earth. That covers that question.

You think I am kidding? No, I am not. For when I spoke of Mother Earth and the fact that Mother Earth is undergoing a vibrational shift, I spoke about the fact that matter itself is changing.¹ There is planning that has to be done, and that means that everyone needs to be prepared.

Now there are some who are prepared already, bless them. There are some who know how to prepare and are going about preparing themselves and helping others. And that – preparing yourself and others – is what I would like to speak to. I suspect the readers of this essay are those I am trying to reach, because you are very likely the leaders and the teachers who can help spread the word about being prepared, and can help people become prepared.

Now if this were a weather watch, it would mean stocking up on food, taping up the windows, finding shelters, all sorts of those things. The main preparation for this shift is first, Do Not Fear. First, Do Not Fear.

This is a momentous opportunity for the entire of humanity. Fear is not part of that opportunity.

For Those Who Believe In The Divine

For those who believe in the Divine, preparation is turning to the Divine, turning to your guides, mostly turning inward to your own souls, to the Divine you contact from within, and examining what it is that you can do to improve your relationship with others. No matter where you stand, there is always room for improvement. Improve your relationship with the environment.

What is it you can do without fear, but with love and gratitude for this opportunity to be a part of humanity in this point in time? Prepare. Know your heart, know your soul, know your guides, know God.

For Agnostics and Atheists

Now for those of you who are devout agnostics, for the atheists, I would say – well we've got two things.

For the doubters, for the agnostics among you, take a chance. Take a chance that there might be a Divine power and a Divine plan and see if you can contact your inner wisdom. Your inner wisdom is there whether or not you believe in Divinity.

For the atheists, for the devout atheists – there is no God, there is no Divine plan – well if you are reading this message and you are an atheist, welcome. I welcome you. And I would say you have chosen your path and I will bless you.

If you are an atheist and reading this message, and believe in the shift and acknowledge the fact that there are things that cannot be measured, whether or not they be Divine, I would ask you also to look to your inner wisdom.

Look to your gut feel, look to your intuition, call it whatever you want. It does not have to be "Divine" if that language offends you or is counter to your belief system. Look into your own wisdom then, and accept the possibility of that storm coming which we shall call the shift.

Go Where They Are

Now who needs to be told? The answer to that question is an adage well applied. Missionaries know it. Now I may have questions about the way my teachings have been presented, but missionaries do have one idea right, no matter what they are teaching. And that is, you meet people where they are. You go to them. You understand where they are and you go to them. Then, once you are there, you attempt to draw them to your message.

But if you do not understand where they are – and I do not mean geographically, although that too – if you do not understand where they are, and you do not take the patience to learn where they are, and to know what their concerns are, and what their questions are, and what belief they are coming from, then it will be more difficult to connect and bring them forward and help them find their own path forward.

Teachers Needed

What we are looking for are the teachers, and those who are sensitive. Teachers – I hope you understand that I do not mean someone who has gone through college and an apprenticeship and has a certificate that says I am a teacher. No, we are all teachers and we are all students, let us get that out of the way.

We are all teachers and we are all students. It is a question of whether you know which you are at what point in time. You can lead by example and be a teacher, and you can follow a good example and be a student. All right, that's taken care of.

Understand where people are. Wherever they are, we need to raise their level of awareness, and that raises the vibration. Raise, broaden, the level of awareness. Raise the consciousness.

I say "raise." It might be more accurate to say broaden, because there are those of you out there who recognize that the veil is thinning. What veil? The veil, the barrier, whatever name you put to that which prevents every human being on Earth from seeing into the more rarified dimensions. This veil prevents every human being on Earth from seeing us in the Hierarchy, seeing where we are and who we are.

Coming Closer

So we must come to you. And we do, we do come to you. But that veil that prevents seeing and knowing directly is thinning.

Once we were in hiding, I think that's fair. I mean, we worked from a distance, from a great distance. We are coming closer, and you are rising, you humanity, are raising your vibrations so that it is easier to see, which means you are coming closer to us and we are coming closer to you.

When the shift occurs, and vibrations are raised all the way around, it is a broadening of consciousness. And suddenly – hopefully not suddenly and traumatically – but slowly and surely, as word spreads, as teachers teach, as students listen and reconsider, then indeed members of the Hierarchy become real and part of human consciousness the way sport is a part of human consciousness.

Now not everybody pays attention to sports. Well, not everyone is going to pay attention to the Hierarchy. But let me tell you, there are a lot of sport fans out there, and we are hoping there are a lot of Hierarchical fans out there – a lot of fans willing to know us, to see us, to listen.

That is the broadening of consciousness. That is the increasing of awareness.

Impossible No Longer

Things that were thought impossible are happening, and things that could not be measured – vibrations, sounds, that could not be measured – well, they will be measured because they will be heard, and they will be seen by so many people that it will be impossible to deny them.

What was impossible, what was not seen, what was not heard, and what was not felt will become possible, and seen, and heard, and felt. If not handled properly, this change can become a cause of great fear. If people are not prepared, and if there are not those around who can steady them, and explain, and weave this shift of awareness into the context of their day-to-day lives, people will look up in fear.

Understanding this shift of awareness and what it means in day-to-day life is what must be done to prepare.

Summary

I will summarize.

The first step in preparation is the elimination of fear. Take the fear out of your own lives and know where fear might erupt in the lives of others. Be prepared with calm certainty to deal with the fear.

Which leads to the second step of preparation – know where people are. Be aware.

Be aware of where they are and be prepared to greet what will now be possible – all that will be seen, felt, and heard – with a joyous heart.

Be prepared to roll up your sleeves and dive-in, in your own lives, to build a new civilization. For there will be changes, there will definitely be changes.

Begin looking now for those leaders who are showing a way without fear, showing a way of inclusion, showing a way of sharing, using technology not to create fear and violence, but to support sharing, understanding, and diversity. Each to their own path with the common good in mind.

Conclusion

My blessings to you all.

Consider yourself a teacher and a student, both, in this time period. Consider the ways in which your own personal awareness is being stretched and broadened. Consider where it is you can benefit others, where you would teach and where you will be a student, for you will be both.

And be prepared to roll up your sleeves, assisting those who need an assist, calming the fears, and building the new world that is to come.

Blessings,

Master Yeshua
