

Angels and the Power of Thought-Forms

an essay from Master Yeshua

I think I shall talk today about angels because humanity works with the angelic kingdom more than most people realize. We, as Masters in the Hierarchy, work with angels and they work with us. We work for the divine plan in harmony. There is a mutual respect between the angelic kingdom and the Masters of the Hierarchy. And there are contrasts.

Contrast: Evolutionary Path

The Masters of Wisdom, the Hierarchy, are souls that have evolved through human form and process on this planet or other planets. The angelic kingdom has not experienced human form. They are great beings, spiritual beings who are . . . yes we could consider them the messengers. They have a great respect, a great love, particularly for human children and those who are unable to speak for themselves. This is where the higher angelic kingdom does its work.

There are the archangels and those that are named in Biblical reference and those you can find in any reference book on angels. These are the power-houses, the directors, the senior management. We shall put it that way. They are the senior management for this entire devic kingdom<sup>1</sup> and they have more direct management responsibility within their kingdom than we do over human beings.

Contrast: Free Will

As ascended Masters of the Hierarchy, we guide human beings. But human beings have free will. Those up and down to the very lowest in the devic kingdom have no free will.

The angelic kingdom are servants one and all --- from the highest to the very, very lowest. Their role is service. And they can be mischievous because they can always find mischievous masters who will give them mischievous commands to fulfill.

Contrast: Residency

Although we of the Hierarchy may have had lives in other places, our primary residency has been, for many hundreds of thousands of years, Earth. So we are the Masters of Earth. And those star seeds who come in respect the fact that we are the Masters of Earth.

The angelic kingdom may or may not be tied to Earth. For the most part they are.

Angelic Kingdom – With Focus on Builders

The angelic kingdom, down through the minor devas and the little ones, will most often appear to human beings in human form. They are energy. But they take human form inasmuch as it is convenient, when living in the physical world and relating to humanity, to assume a form that is very like the form human beings perceive themselves to be.

The kingdom's senior management are those whose names you know. Michael. Gabriel. Raphael. Uriel. Azrael. They each have a function. And they have a great love for humanity, particularly those advanced souls who need bolstering. They are a very giving, service-oriented organization. And we work together.

Beneath the senior management are the lesser angelic kingdoms. The seraphim, the cherubim. The kingdom is divided into many categories. No matter which angelic hierarchy you choose – and there are many – as you get deeper and deeper, you get into the builders. That is where I would like to focus. The builders are all too often overlooked when discussing the angelic kingdom.

I have spoken of thought-forms. [“Personal Creative Power and Oneness” (11-06).] The elemental builders are devas or angels who are called to work when humanity, as individuals or as a group, starts creating a thought-form. The material of thought is indeed a material and it has substance . . . not something that is currently measurable by scientific methods, but please trust me, it has substance.

Thought-forms

Think of a magnet. If you've played with a magnet under a surface sprinkled with sand or iron filings, you've seen the patterns that show you the field of magnetism. It is members of the angelic kingdom down into the elementals who will bring these filings into shape and this is what mental-plane devas do with the material of thought. They are elementals who are so rarefied they can manipulate mental matter. And they are in a line of supervision.

When you, as an individual or a group, start thinking about this or that, you are working directly with one level in the angelic kingdom, a level that is accustomed to perceive human thoughts. That is their function. They perceive. And they will then call in those worker elementals that are appropriate to start building this thought into a thought-form.

The more people who are devoting energy to this thought-form, the more workers who are called in. If you – individual or group – do not continue to vivify this thought-form, it will slowly dissipate. This is much like a magnet under those iron filings slowly losing its magnetism. The iron filings might stay in that formation for a while, but if somebody bumps the table then they fall apart and dissipate. That is what happens to a thought-form when there is no energy poured into it.

The “magicians” working in true magic (and pray they are light workers) are those who know how to contact the appropriate level in the angelic kingdom. If they have the words of power, they can command. This is not advisable. But there are those who seek those words of power and do seek that word to command.

The elemental supervisors who perceive human thought do not judge. They do not pass judgment that this thought is worth building and this one is not. It is their function to perceive the thought and build accordingly. They can build in anger. They can build in violence. They can build in hatred as easily as they can build in love, in compassion, in health, and when I say “health” I mean Oneness. I mean building in respect and developing the health of the one energy system of which we are all part – all of us.

Thought-forms Seeking Oneness

This is how humanity evolves. A new thought-form – a new institution, a change in an existing institution – comes into being and people move away from the old institution. There is less and less thought going into an outmoded thought-form. Let us take the thought-form of slavery.

As there is less and less active thought to maintain the institution, then it gradually dissipates. Now dissipation is not always gradual and without violence, but I think you get the idea. There are fewer and fewer human beings investing in the concept of slavery to keep it alive as an institution and it gradually dissipates. We’re not going into the various kinds of slavery that still exist. I’m only using that as an example. And so it is. At one point the thought-form was so strong that there were many who believed the world would come asunder if this institution vanished, and dire predictions abounded.

Turn that to the economic institutions of today. What is keeping the current economic institutions of today alive? You have those of the angelic kingdom coming in, sustaining the current thought-forms. Why? Because there are so many people pouring energy into those thought-forms. To continue the metaphor, the magnet under the iron filings becomes bigger and stronger and stronger as people maintain the magnetism. More and more people pour information, pour their energies into this economic thought-form and they begin to think there are no other ways. So those in the devic kingdom, the angelic kingdom keep this thought-form alive. This thought-form permeates the mental and astral planes and filters down until people think, "Well, of course it must be this way!"

It is not necessarily this way. When alternatives are presented, alternatives that are healthier for humanity, for the totality of humanity, healthier for the whole, for the One rather than healthier for the few who prosper greatly from the current system, what happens? Unless these alternatives attract those who willingly and enthusiastically build the alternative thought-form, or unless a small group determinedly incubates the thought-form until it expands from small to large, the existing thought-form remains. It is that simple.

There was a time when barter dominated. And there are still places where barter is alive and healthy as a thought-form. Try bartering in one of your first-world department stores. I don't think you'll get very far.

There are other economic alternatives. It is only the belief that there are no valid alternatives that keeps the current alternatives alive.

All right. That is work on the mental planes and the impact of thought-forms.

Deep Into Matter

Now the angelic kingdom, the devic kingdom goes deeper, much deeper into the mechanics of Creation. We have those forces, those beings, those entities, those energies – the elementals – that keep your kitchen table in the form of a table, that create the earth underneath your feet, that create the plants that you admire or the weeds that you pull.

These are the creators at the primary level, if you would, who are taking the material that exists not in the mental plane where it cannot be measured currently, but on the physical plane where it can be measured currently. And you get into these arguments, particles versus waves. Is this a wave at the atomic level? Or is this a particle? These are forces. They are part of the angelic kingdom and they keep the physical plane together. These are the elementals that black magicians seek to control in order to do their black magic.

I'm not even going farther into it. The point is that these elementals can be commanded. And these lovely creators, these of the devic kingdom can be contacted and they will work with humanity and they will work with those who know the right tones, who know the right words, who have the right mindset and very often these are children. Children see fairies, an aspect of the entire kingdom.

Humanity's Role in Creation

So there is this entire parallelism between the angelic kingdom and the human-Hierarchy path that stretches from angelic upper management, those you know, down to the lowest, those you do not know (or maybe you do), the creators. Those that create.

And they create according to someone's thought-form. There are rules and there are laws and I shall not begin to go into the rules and the laws of Creation, but I have illustrated what can be done and what can be created with the help and assistance of these magnificent beings – all the way down, top to bottom.

Health and beauty in this world can be created. The builders don't do it on their own. They are only the instruments. And you, humanity, are doing the creating with your ideas, with your actions based on your beliefs and your ideas. You have great creative powers. Use those powers wisely.

Angelic Power

Energy healers know what can be done with angelic assistance in healing, what can be done in guarding when the angelic kingdom has been asked to guard you. There is power in this kingdom. There is much love. There is dignity, great dignity and you must always remember with the higher forms, the higher they are within their own structure, the more respect they deserve. They will work with you, not for you. They work with us, not for us who are ascended.

That is the partnership that exists. We have different responsibilities within the divine plan. We have different backgrounds within the divine plan. We have different roles, but we are part of the energy system that is the One. We are all part of Oneness. That is what I wish to say about the angelic kingdom.

The details are readily available in various manuscripts should you pursue them. I simply wish to say that there is a partnership, a correspondence, a respect. We are on different paths. We have a respect for one another. And each kingdom serves the One that is Creation. That is what I wish to say.

My blessings on you all. I would have you please consider carefully the thought-forms you are asking the angelic kingdom to create. Whether they are anger-based or love-based. I would ask you to consider what you are asking them to create in the physical environment. And I would have their guards, their guardianship and healing powers at your disposal, especially at the disposal of your loved ones and your children.

Blessings,
Yeshua
