Master Yeshua

My guest speakers and I are tackling a very deep, complex and sensitive subject this month and that is the way love is denied. We offer this information not to accuse you, but to broaden your awareness so that you can help us carry these messages and this awareness deeper into humanity, deeper into the world.

Now, in order to determine if love is denied – or accepted – love is best perceived as a language like any other, and both the sender and the receiver must be speaking the same language. It has been my observation through the eons that there are a great many definitions of love that humanity has used and does use. Until there is a common definition, there will inevitably be those who are denying the love that is being offered them and there will be those who are expressing and attempting to send love in ways that are simply not understood, accepted or acceptable because the language is different.

This observation, I think, is perfectly obvious to anyone who has gone through family counseling or marital counseling of some sort. It is also true when it comes to communications between those of us in the Community, including our Off-Earth Allies, and humanity. We once had a very deep and abiding, active friendship, and one can indeed love one's friends.

We have explained that we are your elder brothers and sisters for we have traveled the path that you travel now. As elder brothers and sisters looking back, knowing the difficulties, having experienced difficulties at that point in our spiritual progress, we look back as any elder siblings would and we would take from you the pain, the difficulties, the misunderstandings. We would have that all vanish and provide you a better environment. But that cannot be. All we can do is advise and guide as we have been contracted to guide by your souls.

So our language of love to you is offering services, services in the nature of advice, guidance and information. These are our primary offerings.

We, for instance, understand the plan for the advancement of this planet. We understand the true relationship between this planet and humanity and every kingdom visible and invisible to human perception. We are willing to share this information, to offer advice and tell you what we see and what we perceive would be the consequences of choosing this path or that path to accomplish the plan. This is information that we would give you.

We would give you information about humanity's true history on this planet, how humanity became humanity and how our Allies were involved in that process. And when I say Allies, I mean both the allies from the Angelic Kingdom and our allies from other human families in the cosmos. All were involved ... all.

This is information that we would share with you.

Our concern is that we have been gone so long that you have forgotten the friends and the elder siblings who once walked among you and provided that kind of service, that kind of information. Then, unlike now, we talked through humanity's plans together and humanity of its own free will – for free will was sacrosanct then, and is now, and will be in the foreseeable future – and humanity, of its free will, based on our discussions, determined what path they chose to move forward. This is what we would do once again.

The ways that love can be denied between us is that you choose not to listen, that you choose not to hear, that you choose to deny our existence, that you choose to deny that we will come, now, to walk among you.

The other way that you deny the love we bring is when your language is different from ours. For many, the expectation, the hope, the belief even, is that we will come and solve problems for you. Humanity has created these problems and humanity must resolve these problems. It is a denial of a very beneficial love to expect that we will come in and resolve things for you. This we cannot do. We can only offer our services.

We, from our side, deny love when it is not in our language, when it is the love of expectation that we will resolve all problems and get you out of a mess.

So, one of the first steps in acknowledging the relationship between our dimension and your dimension is to understand the languages that we use.

Unfortunately, given the laws under which we operate, the common language between us must be, if not entirely then very nearly entirely, the language that we speak: the offer of service, of information, of advice, of friendship, of guidance ... all of this from elder brothers and sisters who have walked the path you walk.

Now, I would introduce the guests who wish to speak to the topic of love denied.

My first guest speaker is from the Community, one known to you all I am certain. I would invite you, please, to listen to the words of Master Morya

Master Morya

Thank you, Master Yeshua.

The ways in which, from my perspective, humanity is denying love, denying the love that is not only appropriate but is needed within the kingdom of humanity, has to do with leadership and institutions.

I will speak first of leadership, leadership that focuses on power and accumulation of power and counts the number of followers and relishes follower obedience and/or demands follower obedience. This is a denial of the relationship of love between the leader and those who have agreed to follow and it is most definitely a denial of the concept of love when people are given very little choice but to follow. This is often expressed in rules and guidelines that are de facto rules.

When the individual and the individual's needs are lost and become irrelevant to the power of the leader and those in the leader's inner circle, then indeed the concept of love as a service to the whole of humanity has been so totally distorted that it is unrecognizable. And you see, that is the love that leaders and institutions built by leaders and their inner circles must have – love based on service to the whole.

I will repeat: in my language, to continue the metaphor that Yeshua has used, in my language love is service to the whole. Love is recognizing Oneness with the whole and recognizing that service benefits, but only benefits because the whole is enriched.

From our perspective, we see the mixing of love and power, love and greed, and I am here to tell you that love based on light and service to the whole will not be denied. Those leaders, those inner groups, those institutions who deny the service to the whole will crumble. They will not survive. It is that simple.

The question then becomes what institutions will take their place? And I would tell you that those institutions that do bear in mind and are working for the good of the whole will replace those that crumble. The transition, unfortunately, can be very, very painful. Those who can least afford more burden, more suffering, are the ones who will bear the brunt of the love that is denied by the leaders, their inner groups and the institutions that they support.

Those institutions – political institutions, financial institutions, human rights institutions, educational institutions – all these must change. They must truly look to their essence and find out whether they view themselves, as members of the United States Congress view themselves, as winners and losers. Winners and losers! When they should be viewing themselves as serving the citizens of that country and serving humanity, they are worried about winning or losing. They should be concerned about future generations and what they are doing for those who are, at this point, unable to help themselves, concerned about what they are doing to strengthen people to enable them to help themselves. And they are talking about winners and losers.

And they are replicated over and over, through every country in the world one way or another. These are institutions that deny the outflowing love that should come with their position and their responsibilities to humanity. For if the government in one nation, however small, is not serving the people of that nation, then humanity is being denied the love that is meant to flow through as light, flow through as an environment in which human souls can thrive and grow spiritually and express themselves and the true love that lies within the core of every soul. This concept of winners and losers within the government is denying love.

I will now speak of individuals, those who deny that they are Sparks of God, who deny the love that is their birthright as a Spark of God, and this denial comes in many forms. One must first understand the gift and the responsibility that comes with the gift of being a Spark of God. Once you understand that about yourself, you will begin to realize that you are love, for God is love and that love unfolds life after life, incarnation after incarnation. This love is for yourself and for other members of the group to which you belong ... and that is humanity.

We have said it before, I will say it again, repair relationships. Repair relationships. A sustainable repair in a relationship will aid all of humanity and let more light come in, and that light is the love that God offers you.

Be open. Do not deny love in the giving. Do not deny love in the receiving. That would be my advice. And in order to make that real, understand the language of love from the ones who are offering it and understand the language of love you use when you do the offering.

Those are my comments on the ways that love is denied. I do hope that some of them have resonated and that you will do something about it. Thank you.

Thank you, Master Morya.

My next two guest speakers are from off Earth. They are dear and valued allies. We are most fortunate to have them working with us. They are working in many ways, largely in the inner planes. However, more and more, as Earth's vibrational frequency rises, they are working with those in the human family who can hear them and are open to the messages they bring. I introduce first Omstara. Thank you for coming.

Omstara

Thank you, Master Yeshua.

I have been doing considerable work with the planet Earth itself and with the Angelic Kingdom. There was much damage to repair after the rupture between humanity and the Angelic Kingdom as a result of decisions made by humanity in Atlantis. For the decisions made by humanity were followed by decisions made by the devic aspect of the Angelic Kingdom and the devas are the builders.

There was a friendship, a partnership that existed between the devic builders and humanity and that partnership crumbled. The love language between the two was distorted. Humanity shifted away from working as partners with those in the kingdom who were doing the building. The language changed from partnership to dominance. That is one of the reasons Atlantis fell.

Now why do I mention that? Well, there has been much work to restore what was ruptured at that point in time. But you see, that tendency among members of humanity is demonstrating once again. Rather than having a partnership with the great being of this planet and the body of this great being of which humanity is itself a part, there is an ever increasing attitude of dominance, dominance as expressed in the way mining is connected, dominance as expressed in the way water is handled and treated. Dominance. Dominance that the land and the oceans and the minerals under the land and precious stones under the land, even the air, that it is humanity's right to dominate all of this, not to work in partnership but to dominate.

This domination is a denial of the love that is offered by this planet to its children, humanity. Let that sink in. This great being, Mother Earth, called you to be here. If Mother Earth dies, you die. There will be no more incarnation on this planet. It will be dead. And after all you have done to Earth, which great being will welcome you?

The language of love is the language of the beauty of this planet, the language of what is offered by this planet, the language of what can be accomplished with recognition of the relationship and the offering of this planet, and working in partnership with this planet and with the Devic Kingdom, those who build the body of this planet, those who build the plants, the animals.

This relationship, this partnership, this coexistence when not acknowledged and respected and treated as a partnership, is a denial, a serious suicidal denial. I know of no other word than suicidal.

Understand that there is a huge change underway. Part of this change is that in the next two or three generations, the bulk of humanity is going to see, with their physical eyes, into dimensions that they cannot see now. The destruction that has been wrought will be clear and painful to witness. Now, if you do not believe that your soul comes back again and again and again to learn lessons, or if you deal with those who do not believe this is the case, then the plea is simply a legacy to the future.

If you do believe and understand the process of returning again and again in incarnation until certain lessons have been learned, then, in point of fact, you are creating your own mess if you continue to deny the love that exists in the partnership and cooperation that is possible with this planet. The language of love requires respect for Mother Earth's many and varied cycles. Survival itself requires recognition and restoration of full partnership.

Without that recognition, much will be lost. We believe that recognition is possible and that those of you who have already made the commitment can, with wisdom, love and persistence, educate – educate in wisdom, love and persistence, I will emphasize that, those who do not accept these facts from arrogance or simply from their own personal suffering. There are many reasons for active denial.

Be part of the solution. Understand what it means to have the love and the partnership of the great being who is Mother Earth, and of the beings who work to build the plants, the animals and the body of Mother Earth. Thank you.

Omstara

Yeshua

I thank you very much, Omstara. You have spoken for me as well. Thank you.

Now, I would introduce to you Anubis. We are greatly privileged to have this being among us and helping us. I thank you ... Anubis.

Anubis

I come with one message and that is unity. Whatever rips apart the fabric of unity is a denial of love.

All of Creation is bound together energetically. You have heard this before. I will say it again. This energetic package that is all of Creation works together.

Let us narrow the scope of the entire of Creation. Let us narrow that first to this galaxy, and then let us narrow that to this solar system. And then, as you can imagine, we will narrow that to the planet Earth. And from there I will take staged narrowings, but please bear in mind that energetically, all is created, all is interlinked.

If you do not believe that all is created and all is energetically interlinked, I would ask you what would happen if the Earth's gravitational field suddenly and totally collapsed. No more gravity on the planet Earth. What would happen?

Personally, I think it would be a major disaster, yet do you consider gravity as energy? And do you consider that you are connected to Earth via gravity?

Well, you might not see the energy fields, but you are connected to every other human being. The connection is there, the connection is energy, the connection is real. And you might not see that connection any more than you see gravity, but just gravity, that link is real. And that link is something that you need to understand. The reason you need to understand this connection is to make decisions based upon that fact.

Now there are spots on this planet where gravity does not work in the way it is expected to work. These spots can be visited, they can be studied, they can bring in a lot of money from visitors who come to study them. But generally speaking, gravity is both constant and unseen ... as is unity.

Unity. Gravity. Now where would we be if gravity did not function? If you deny for just one moment the energetic unity of this planet, or if you doubt that it is real, think of gravity.

And that unity extends beyond what is currently visible and measurable by human beings into the other dimensions that those with etheric vision can see and know exist. So you can work with gravity and understand it and cooperate with it, or you can attempt to deny it. And if you attempt to deny gravity, there are consequences. If you attempt to deny the unity of humanity, there are consequences. Now, gravity brings its consequences rapidly to your attention. Ignoring gravity will bring swift response. Ignoring the unity of humanity takes a great deal longer for the consequences to manifest, but the response is just as deadly.

Just as you need not ignore gravity, you need not ignore the unity of humanity. You can choose to recognize that unity and cooperate with that unity in relationships, in decisions close and far away. This is either an acceptance of the offering of love that is simply a law of the universe or it is a denial of love. The unity itself, like gravity, exists. It cannot be escaped.

You say that you can escape the gravity of Earth. This is true. But you do not escape the gravity of all of Creation. You just have to learn a new partnership. Let us, please, come back to Earth.

So long as you are on Earth – or I will say cycling Earth if you are in the space station – so long as you are a human being, there is a unity that exists between yourself and other human beings and that unity must be acknowledged. And the acknowledgment of that unity is the giving and receiving of love, one from another. If you are off in your space station where you can say gravity does not apply, I would ask what happens if that space station falls out of orbit? Or if Earth's gravity suddenly vanishes? I will leave it at that.

The unity of the human family of Earth cannot be denied. It is an energetic unity, and if that energetic unity is not set right, it leads to self-destruction. Those are the simple facts. And that self-destruction is a denial of the love that exists within this unity. So I would ask you: What are you doing to ensure that love exists and is maintained within this unity?

I will leave you with that question. Thank you.

Thank you, Anubis.

This was a delicate topic to tackle this month. It is a companion piece to WeSeekToServe which is dealing with Together, We Love. We offered to present the consequences of denying love and to take a look at that side of things. We have done so from four different perspectives. We do so in an effort to educate and to give you, the reader, information that you can use not only in your personal life, but as you interact with others. We offer you information by broadening your awareness – not accusing you, but broadening your awareness. This enables you to better articulate what is going on and this enables you to become an ambassador of love. I thank you.

My blessings upon you all.
