

New Work for New Times

an essay from Master Yeshua

I will speak today of new work, new work for new times.

Many are already investigating this new work – anyone who has an inclination toward what one could call New Age, towards the psychic, towards the esoteric, towards open minded spirituality, anyone inclined in that direction, anyone who is beginning to simply recognize the importance of things like hands-on healing. Then there is the category actually called energy work – energy healing, energy inputs into the body, energy output from the body. There are many, like hands-on healers, who fall into that category.

Any who are there already realize that this entire area of “new work” is gaining a certain degree of credibility with the general public. It is becoming not the exception . . . nor is it the rule, but it is no longer on the very outer fringe without any credibility. And it is all energy work.

I have said before in my dissertation on new partnerships (New Partnerships With Humanity, second commentary of 2011 - 03) that we as Masters, we of the Spiritual Hierarchy, we are beginning to blend, to merge, to emerge more openly among humanity. As that happens you will see more channeling. Channeling is energy work. You will see more energy work. You will see more spiritually-oriented organizations that are outside what has been called traditional.

New Times – Energy Changes

These are new times. There has been much – perhaps too much – said about the shift. Some of that is couched in fear rather than as an opportunity, rather than as hope, rather than as a needed graduation to the maturity of the human race.

These new times are clearly upon us. There is talk of a fifth dimension . . . fourth dimension, third dimension, name the dimensions any way you choose. The point is these new times begin with energy, energy changes.

Those who, for instance, undertake meditation may do so for various reasons. One of those reasons may be calming anxiety, meditation as an approach to deal with stress. One of those reasons may be spiritual growth, meditation as an approach to contact your spirit guides or your own Higher Self. Why meditation? What happens during meditation?

I think all who have experienced a meditative state – or who have not experienced a meditative state, but who have at least looked at it or heard about it – can understand that there is an energy change when one meditates. Anyone who, for instance, has all those electrodes placed on their head for brain wave analysis when meditating can see that there is a change. This is an energy change.

Think of energy as a vibrational change. This vibrational change can be graphed, displayed in many different ways through colors or up and down line charts. You have the means to visualize these energy changes.

Earth Itself Is Changing

I don't think there would be any difficulty if you asked the right questions of the scientific community to get to the point where all is energy. These new times are energy changes.

If gamma waves and x-rays, various kinds of radiation can be measured from the distant fringes of the galaxy and from galaxies beyond our galaxy, then you can understand that there is energy reaching Earth from distant sources.

The Earth on which we live – in which we function, whose energy we all rely on for our existence – the Earth itself is changing. There will be a vibrational shift. As that happens it will impact all who live and move upon the Earth. That would pretty much be all of us.

There is talk of raising your vibrational energy to keep pace with this change. This energy shift is a spiritual maturing, a cleansing of the denser vibrational energy and becoming a more refined energy. This impacts all who live here, plants, animals, humanity, the works.

These vibrational changes are part of the new times.

Another part of the new times affects those of us who have reached the point where we no longer have a spiritual growth reason to incarnate. We, too, are tied to the Earth. Earth changes, humanity changes, we change. But we do not change so much as either the Earth or humanity, so we become vibrationally – energetically – more synchronized with humanity and with the Earth. The distance between us narrows.

Humanity Has Grown Spiritually

Humanity has earned its spiritual growth. This may not be obvious, for it is easy to point fingers at everything that is wrong and greedy, everything that is not healthy for the human race.

But I would ask you to take the same amount of time, take the same amount of energy to focus on, and speak up about, the changes that are healthy for humanity. Changes that demonstrate love for your brothers. Changes that demonstrate true concern for one another, be that neighbor-to-neighbor or be that to a stranger; be that through an organization to strangers you will never know, strangers you will never meet; be that from country to country. The list of NGO (non-governmental organization) charities is very long. These are the bright stars among humanity, those who advocate, not collecting more and more and more, but sharing what we have. There are many, there are many.

This is a sign of humanity's spiritual maturity. You may not think it spiritual maturity when you write that check to this organization or that organization – to feed the hungry, offer medical aid to those that need it. The fact that you do this simply because the need is there is part of the changing time.

Certainly there are changing communications. Consider all this talk about space brethren. "Is there evidence of ancient astronauts?" "Is there evidence within our lifetime of contact with our space brethren?" I'm not going into that. There are plenty of documentaries on the subject. You can examine them, think about them and draw your own conclusions. I am not here to tell you what those conclusions should be, but the fact that these documentaries exist is a sign of change.

Hierarchy and Humanity

Questions are being asked, and in many instances they are healthy and good questions. Questions themselves are the changes, and as these changes come about, there is then a change in the way of the Hierarchy, we the Ascended Masters, work with humanity.

Part of that change is a closer working relationship with those in humanity who are working for the good of the whole. Many are finding that they are developing a closer relationship with their guides. They may realize this or not, for this may be simply a more finely honed sensitivity that they would call gut feel or intuition. Their intuition may, in fact, be guidance from the spiritual realm.

Another way that the work is changing is that we Masters of the Hierarchy are appearing more and more. We are visiting humanity more and more. We each do this in our own way. Sometimes you wonder and you suspect that it may be a Master you have met. It may or may not be, but I can tell you that we do more now, than in many, many years, take the trouble to shape a human form and take on dense human form and meet and walk with humanity.

Our sessions in dense physical form are brief. Getting back to "all is energy," it takes a great deal of our energy – which is not in the dense physical form of an incarnated soul – to assume that level of density.

It is more efficient for us to work through those who are willing to become our channels. It is more efficient for us to work through those we can guide by, in essence, whispering in their ear, or contacting them telepathically. They feel the touch and respond to it and act on it. (Hopefully there is a discernment check in there!) So they hear, feel and discern through intuition, through their feeling by way of the heart that is the contact with the soul. They have a knowing that whatever it is they are hearing and sensing is good is worth acting on.

When doing this, there must be discernment. In some circles it is called grounding and that is a good term.

We work more closely with humanity in other ways. We do more clearing of the path. When one of humanity is inspired by their own soul, and their own heart tells them what must be done, they go out and start to make it happen. We take note and, as we can, we assist and clear the way. This is another new working relationship, because there are more and more of humanity who are listening to the soul speaking through the heart.

They know this or that is to be done for the good of the whole, for the good of the One. We work from our side whether they know it or not to help clear the way . . . for the good of the whole, for the good of the One, for the benefit of the spiritual growth of humanity, though the message may not have anything apparently to do with spiritually. Underneath, however, the message is spiritual.

Their efforts may be a new way of doing business which can range from barter at a market to a mega corporation with a monopoly. We may see new ways of doing business that benefit the whole, that benefit the One – the One that is the entire energy system of Creation, not the one who is the CEO of a corporation.

Spiritual Inspiration Not Required

Those who are out there forging new ways, new visions, may or may not feel inspired by spiritual means. They may not believe in God, but their heart knows what is right to do for the world around them. They know what kind of environment they want for themselves and their children and their grandchildren and their great grandchildren. And if they have no children, they know what they want for humanity. They don't have to believe in God to do that. But they know and we work with them.

So these are new times. And as new vibrations emerge – individually or through groups, communities, neighborhoods, countries – as these vibrations emerge for the Earth on which we move, to which we are attached, there are new ways of working for all of us. New vibrations, new times, usher new ways of working with one another . . . working with one another human to human and working with one another Hierarchy to humanity. Our new ways of working involve sharing and looking to the good of the whole.

Change With The Times

As this change comes about, existing institutions that no longer serve will begin to reform and they will evolve with the times . . . or they will find themselves without a place to go. It will no longer be totally business as usual. The institutions that we rely on will evolve with the changes of the times or they will find themselves left behind.

I will use the example of evolving with the times and ask you how many of you currently use chariots for transportation? I think that there is indeed a vastly smaller percentage of the human population using chariots than there was 3000 years ago. I would go so far as to say 2000 years ago. Times change. Institutions change. They evolve or they are left behind because they are no longer beneficial, they no longer serve. Humanity shifts and moves to the institutions that do serve the current needs.

This applies to governments and the way people are governed. This applies to the way business is done institutionally. This applies to health care practices. I certainly do not want to get into health care approaches around the world. But look at how treating illnesses has evolved – and will undergo yet more evolution. We are beginning to recognize the connection from the soil to the foods we eat, from there to the energy systems our food creates or interrupts within the human body. We are beginning to recognize energy that reaches our bodies from the outside, from healing touch or similar modalities. We are beginning to recognize that energy changes whether from food or healing touch are connected with spiritual growth.

So the issue is new times and new ways of working within humanity and new ways of working from our side and our kingdom – called the fifth kingdom – to the kingdom of humanity from which we came, from which we evolved. There are new ways, if you would, from those who are farther down the road in spiritual evolution to those who are less far down the road. There are new ways of working with each other for those who are at the same place in the road.

One could think of it as North-South and East-West, or one could think of it as vertical and horizontal. Whichever way you choose, it is a multidimensional change. Is it even possible to truly develop your individual spirituality and live it without taking that life you live and shining it forth whenever you move among your fellows? I pose the question.

Summary

The new ways of working and the changing times are upon us. There is nothing that is going to stop this momentum now. Nothing. It is only a matter of how flexible and alert and willing people are to recognize the fact that we are changing, that times are changing.

Those who are flexible are willing to change within and willing to change without, willing to accept the fact that there may be institutions that they have never heard of before, willing to accept the fact that what may have seemed completely impossible and unvalidated is now part of ordinary existence. Alert flexibility is part of our changing times, part of our changing work.

My blessing on you all. It is an old message, but it is true now more than ever: May you grow in your own way, on your own spiritual path and may that growth lead you to contribute your light, your love, your gifts to the One that encompasses us all, to the One of all Creation.

My blessings,
Yeshua
